Keymacro is a great useful add-on to your keyboard. All keyboard shortcuts can be stored in a special Keymacro File. You can then use the File to generate Keymacro Files. Each File contains one or more Keymacro Sets (to be used) and Keymacro lines (to be used). Keymacro lets you make a macro that works on one or more Windows applications. For example, one of these could be your web browser. The user could then press a key on the keyboard to activate the macro. The macro would then be used to open the web browser and enter the URL of the desired web page. Keymacro can be used for any task. Here are some examples: Take Notes: create a macro that takes notes and saves them to a file. E-mail/Chat Program: create a macro that automatically sends e-mails or chats from your chosen program. File Search/FTP/Program Open/Email: create a macro that searches for files, opens and FTPs, or sends e-mails or chats. You can also use Keymacro in reverse. To do this, you must first create a macro with the name "Rebind Keymacro Macro". In order to use this software, you must first download the "Keymacro 7.11.08.exe" file to your computer. There are two versions of this add-on. The "First time run" version, which requires a setup.exe file, or the "All time run" version. This software is a registry free add-on.
